

PUBLIC NOTICE

After eight years of sharing his life and signature culinary creations with the Springfield community, Chef Keith is announcing the last day of Service at Loukinens' on 4th as Saturday, May 3rd, 2025.

It has been the privilege of a lifetime to get to know so many great people in the community and to develop solid friendships as a result of his endeavor. He is deeply grateful to all the service providers who have been so instrumental in the continued motion of the business all this time.

With the changes that have occurred in the dynamic of Downtown Springfield these past few years, coupled with the skyrocketing cost of doing business, he has deemed it no longer financially sustainable to continue with the business.

Effective immediately, the building is for sale to preapproved buyers. Licensed Brokers who bring a buyer that culminates in a sale, will be compensated. Brokers and buyers are encouraged to contact Chef Keith directly. All inventory, including the art collection, will be liquidated on a cash and carry basis in order to pay all debts owed against the business. Purchasing of equipment and inventory will begin on Sunday May 4th. More details to come.

With a mix of sadness and courage, Chef is going forward to the next step in his culinary journey. With his extensive background and experience in the Hotel and Food and Beverage industry, he looks forward to continuing his service to the community in the near future.

Greatest thanks goes to the staff who have loyally and faithfully worked at Loukinens' to make these past eight years possible. Any restaurant anywhere, would be fortunate to have these professionals on their staff.

Thank you

Chef Keith Loukinen
